The Fuqua School of Business at Duke University recognizes and values the experience military professionals bring to the classroom and beyond.

Fuqua actively recruits military personnel and veterans to all of our MBA programs. At Fuqua, you can leverage your leadership and management skills to advance your military career or to successfully transition to professional civilian life. A Yellow Ribbon program participant and designated a GMAC Military-Friendly School, Fuqua will provide you with the resources and support you need.

The student community at Fuqua is imbued with what is known as the “Team Fuqua” spirit — a spirit of camaraderie, leadership, and teamwork. It is an environment in which military leaders excel.

The Team Fuqua spirit extends beyond your time as a student as well. As a Fuqua graduate, you will become a part of one of the most active and proactive alumni networks of any business school.

We encourage you to get in touch with our current veteran students through the Duke Armed Forces Association, and to visit us on campus. You can schedule a visit online using our Online Scheduling Tool, or join us for our inaugural Veteran’s Day Symposium event.

THE DUKE MBA VETERAN’S DAY SYMPOSIUM
NOVEMBER 9, 2012

A Proud Legacy of Veterans at Fuqua

Brigadier General Tim Trainor (Daytime MBA ’92) has been with the military for almost 30 years. In the summer of 2010 he was appointed Dean of the Academic Board of his alma mater, The United States Military Academy at West Point. Trainor says he gained his leadership philosophy at Fuqua and on the field. At Fuqua, he says he learned how to build teams and generate

Edward Magee (Daytime MBA ’04) is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy and served 15 years in the Marine Corps prior to coming to Fuqua. Now General Manager of York Vehicle Operations for Harley-Davidson Motor Company, Magee reflected on his Duke MBA experience: “Fuqua celebrates leadership diversity — my military experience was incredibly valued by my peers at Fuqua. The school’s culture is inherently military-friendly, which made my transition out of the Marine Corps two of the best years of my life.”
Scholarships & Financial Aid
Our financial aid and scholarship programs provide many options to help you affordably finance your MBA. We will work closely with you to make this process as seamless as possible. Many scholarships are available up to the full cost of tuition.

- Yellow Ribbon Program
  Fuqua is proud to participate once again in the Yellow Ribbon Program for the 2012-2013 academic year. Students in all of Duke’s graduate business programs are eligible for Yellow Ribbon aid.

- Merit Scholarships
  We also recognize and value the leadership experience, professionalism, and teamwork mentality that our military students bring with them, and we do award a number of merit-based scholarships to our military students annually.

- Application Fee Waiver
  Active duty military, U.S. active reserve, and honorably discharged/completed service military personnel (within 3 years) qualify for a full application fee waiver. This waiver applies to the online applications for all Duke MBA programs. Only voluntary service is valid.

Military Student Resources
The student government, the MBA Association (MBAA), oversees a number of student clubs with a focus on fostering diversity. You can take on leadership roles, expand your network, increase your professional opportunities, or simply have fun by participating in one of Fuqua’s many clubs. Many clubs sponsor career activities, community service projects, and leadership conferences.

- Duke Armed Forces Association (DAFA)
  DAFA is a diversity club within the Fuqua School of Business at Duke University. The club’s mission is to expand the Fuqua brand to prospective students, prepare club members transitioning from the military into a civilian career, and to build camaraderie. Additionally, DAFA leadership works to develop and foster relationships between veterans and the business community. - Fuqua/Coach K Center on Leadership and Ethics (COLE)
  COLE’s mission is to redefine leadership and develop leaders for emerging global challenges. The center does so through deepening and extending the way students, academics, and practitioners think about and practice business leadership and ethics in the 21st century. To learn more, please visit the COLE web site: http://cole.fuqua.duke.edu/about/

Jacqueline Harris, Daytime MBA ’13, is an active duty Army officer and member of the Duke Armed Forces Association. Jacqueline will serve as an academic instructor at West Point upon completion of her MBA. As an Army Engineer, Jacqueline deployed three times in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom. She also served as one of the student co-chairs for the 2012 Blue Devil Weekend, Fuqua’s admitted student weekend, and is a leader in the student community.

Joseph N. G. LeBoeuf, Jr., joined the faculty at Fuqua after serving 35 years in the Army. A Professor of Management, Prof. LeBoeuf leads courses in leadership, leadership development, and organizational culture. Still actively involved in consulting for military organizations such as the Air Force Academy and the Reserve Officer Training Corps, Prof. LeBoeuf is very involved with the Coach K Center of Leadership and Ethics (COLE).
