BUILDING DYNAMIC TEAMS

Diversify, Communicate, Engage

To succeed in today’s dynamic business environment you need the tools to help your team build strong relationships, make wise decisions, and discover opportunities. Building Dynamic Teams will help you develop skills to overcome obstacles so you can accelerate and improve team decision making while fostering a collaborative team environment.

With firm academic grounding in cognitive and social psychology, organizational theory, behavioral economics, and decision making, this course blends insights from academic research, case studies, group discussions and experiential learning exercises.

Taught by two of Fuqua's highly-regarded business management faculty members, Building Dynamic Teams will provide you with tangible outcomes that you can easily bring back to your organization.
